

The Julia Butler Hansen Refuge for the Columbian White-tailed Deer (Refuge) contains over 6,000 acres of pastures, forested tidal swamps, brushy woodlots, marshes and sloughs along the Columbia River in both Washington and Oregon State. It was established in 1971 specifically to protect and manage Columbian white-tailed deer.

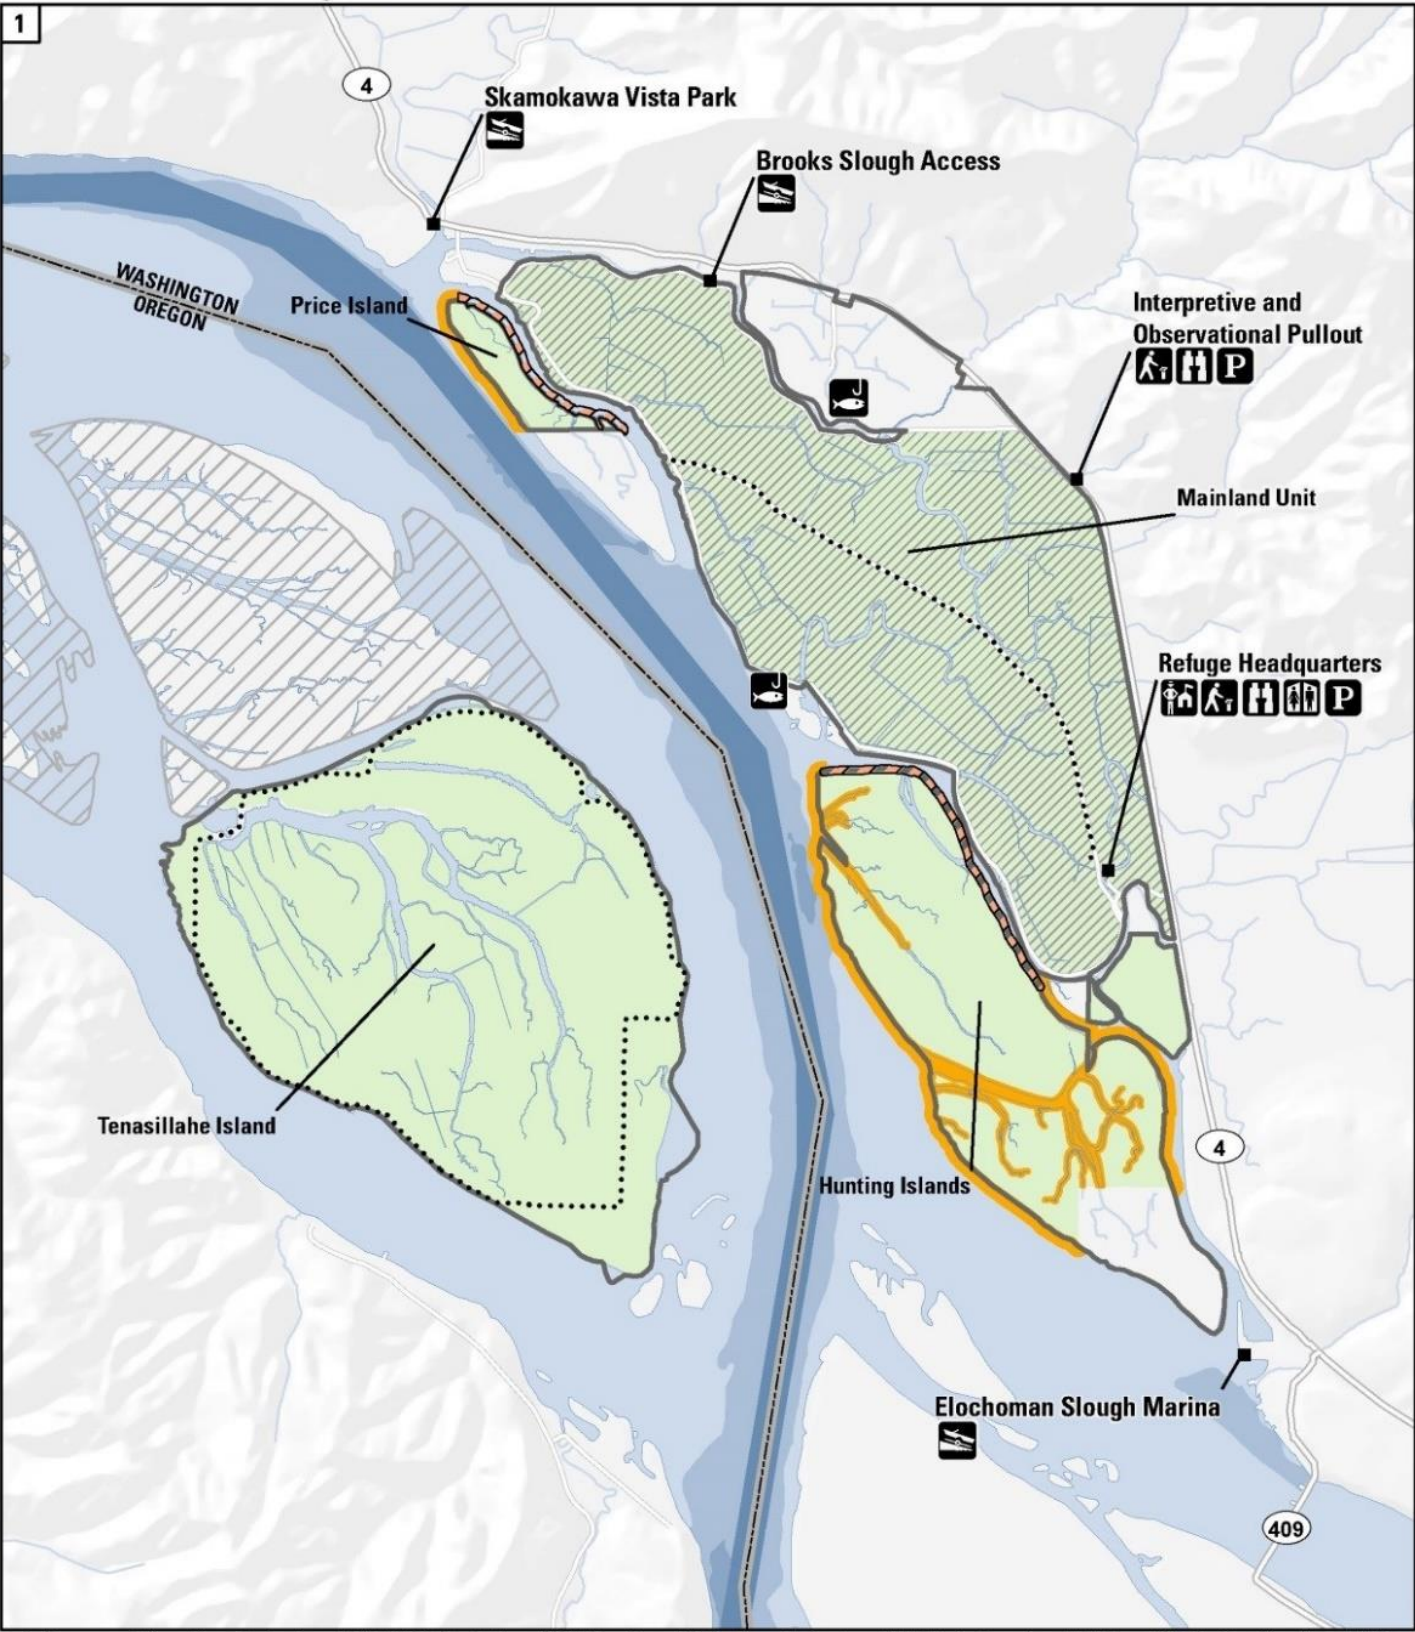

Hunting of geese, ducks, coots, and snipe is permitted in specific units of the Refuge in accordance with federal and state hunting regulations. Areas open to hunting include portions of the shorelines, tidelands and sloughs of Price and Hunting Islands in Washington State and Wallace and Crims Islands in Oregon State. All other Refuge units including the Mainland and Tenasillahe Island Units are closed to waterfowl hunting.
